

Routledge
Taylor & Francis Group

Deadline for the upcoming issue:
October 1, 2014

CALL FOR REPORTS

“Transnational Social Review – A Social Work Journal“ (TSR)

The section Mapping Transnationalism of “Transnational Social Review – A Social Work Journal“ (TSR), seeks to explore the various facets of transnational phenomena around the world. Mapping Transnationalism offers the opportunity to report on developments, experiences, explorations, and observations from a transnational world. Reaching out to diverse authors and readers across borders is, therefore, a critical task for this open access part of TSR. Access to scholarly knowledge and information is still a privilege in many parts of the world, and the spread of communication technologies faces multiple socioeconomic and political barriers. Nevertheless, we strive to fulfill our responsibility to be accessible, both for readers and authors around the globe and for different cultures of knowledge.

In order to engage with actors from various parts of the world and to increase the representation of transnational knowledge, we invite researchers, policy makers, practitioners, and doctoral students to contribute with short reports (up to 1500 words) to this section of the journal to discuss recent developments of transnational phenomena and of transnational studies. We welcome a variety of formats, including:

- research reports
- conference reports
- interviews with activists, and politicians on transnational developments
- portraits of transnational organizations, and social movements
- reports on transnational practices and policies and
- opinion pieces

Issues 2014

- 1/2014 Religion and Social Work – Transnational Perspectives
- 2/2014 Social Services and Transnationality
- 1/2014 Linking Migration and Social Policy

Contact:

Sofia An / Stefan Köngeter / Naomi Lightman
Mapping Transnationalism Editors
Transnational Social Review – A Social Work Journal (TSR)
Mail: mapping@transsos.com
New Homepage TSR: www.tandfonline.com/rtsr